Secure Your Permanent Residency in Hong Kong with Strategic Expertise

Achieving Permanent Residency (PR) in Hong Kong is a nuanced process that requires more than just time spent within its borders. Our service is meticulously crafted to guide you through the complexities of establishing Ordinary Residence under the NCIES visa, ensuring a clear path to securing your Right of Abode in Hong Kong.

Understanding Ordinary Residence for PR

To qualify for PR, you must demonstrate continuous and ordinary residence in Hong Kong for no less than seven years. This involves not just the duration of stay but the intention to return, evidenced by your ties and commitments within Hong Kong. Holding consecutive residence visas and maintaining a clean legal and financial record in Hong Kong are also crucial. Importantly, your presence in Hong Kong should be for a settled purpose, such as investment or work, aligning with the requirements of the NCIES visa.

The Path to PR: No Minimum Days, Maximum Strategy

Our approach recognizes that securing PR goes beyond counting days spent in Hong Kong. With strategic planning, it's entirely feasible to establish Hong Kong as your permanent residence while managing obligations abroad. Our expertise lies in navigating these subtleties, ensuring your time outside Hong Kong is considered temporary and does not hinder your PR application.

Your Strategic Plan for PR

1. Strategize Early: Before embarking on your NCIES visa journey, it's crucial to plan with the end goal of PR in mind.
2. Footprint Wisely: Determine your footprint strategy in a way that supports your PR application, ensuring your NCIES visa aligns with your life's realities.
3. Map Your Visa to Your Life: We help integrate your NCIES visa status with your personal and professional circumstances, ensuring a seamless path to PR.
